INVALID PENSION HILL

On motion of Mr. CAMPHELL, of Ohio, House bill making appropriations for the payment of invalid and other pensions of the United States for the year ending the 30th June, 1857, returned from the Senate with amendments, was taken from the Speaker's table, and referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.

Indian Hostilities in original and mashinators.

Mr. LANE, of Oregon, by unanimous consent, called the attention of the House to the existing state of affairs in the Territories of Oregon and Washington. He had received reliable information that the Indians were perpetrating murders and massacres of the most horrible description, and the steps taken by the administration had not been effective in preventing these outrages, notwithstanding their desire to afford protection to the people in those distant Territories. The troops that had been ordered there for the protection of the settlements had failed to afford that protection to the country which the people expected, and were certainly entitled to. By the last steamer news had been received that the Indians had taken possession of the principal settlements of the country in Washington Territory, had attacked and taken Whitney's island and San Jaan island, and had robbed the custom-house. Thirty families had either been tomahawked or led to the stake, the mother being compelled to witness the sufferings and dying agonies of the child, and the child of the mother, as the bizzing faggots were heaped around them. He made the statement in order that the House might know the condition of things on the frontier settlements, and that immediate measures might be taken to prevent the ravages of the Indians. Unless this was done, the settlements would be wiped out, the people would fall under the tomahawk of the savage, and their scalps would be hung in his wigwam, and that country, now the home of civilized men, would again be occupied by him. He asked the House, under the pressing necessity of the case, to consider a bill which he introduced appropriating the sum of three hundred thousand dollars for the suppression of Indian hostilities in the Territories of Washington and Oregon.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, thought the bill had better be INDIAN HOSTILITIES IN ORRGON AND WASHINGTON.

appropriating to such a supersistence of Indian hostilities in the Territories of Washington and Oregon.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, thought the bill had better be referred to the Committee of Ways and Means in the causal manner, and they could report at an early day, if it was manner, and they could report at an early day, if it was necessary.

Mr. GREENWOOD, of Arkansas, suggested to the gentleman from Oregon that he allow the bill to go to the Committee of Ways and Means, that they could proceed to its consideration at once, and he could appear before them and show the necessity for immediate action. If it met their approval, they could report the bill, and the House immediately act upon it.

Mr. CAMPBELL and that the committee, in order to consider the bill, would meet to-morrow morning, contrary to their understanding on adjourning to-day; that they would then consider the bill, and if they determined to report it would do so on Monday, when the House might proceed to its consideration and pass it.

Mr. LANE assented to the proposition.

The bill was then read twice and referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.
